

ATTEMPT TO END RAIL STRIKE FAILS

NEXT ACTION FOR RAILROAD PEACE UP TO PRESIDENT

MEDIATION COLLAPSE DROPS SITUATION INTO OLD RUT BOTH SIDES FIRM Roads United in Effort to Crush Strike; Unions Defiant, at Bay.

By DAVID LAWRENCE. Copyright, 1922, by The Janesville Gazette.

Washington.—The next move in the rail strike is President Harding's. The collapse of mediation on the part of the brotherhood chiefs and the rail executives leaves the situation exactly where it was when Mr. Harding yielded to an impulse and allowed the disputants to settle themselves. This effort has failed and the effect of it has been to strengthen the belief of the rail executives that they have the shipmen's support and that by persisting to the end they will crush the resistance of the union leaders and force an absolute surrender.

In Hard Position There is no question that the shipmen have been placed in the position of begging for reinstatement. The unanimity of the executives in rejecting their pleas is directly attributable to a feeling that at this time the rail executives would be delivering a body blow at future strikes. But will the shipmen surrender? Will the brotherhood allow a crushing defeat to be administered to unionism? Many of the rail executives think it inevitable and are secretly rejoicing over the contest. They are hoping that the shipmen will not stand up to the rail executives' threats to them at this time.

Determined to Fight Unfortunately there are signs of a determination on the part of the shipmen to capitulate. The executives are to have a conference with the shipmen and the latter have agreed to a meeting with the executives. The executives are to have a conference with the shipmen and the latter have agreed to a meeting with the executives. Governor Blaine and socialism are so unalterably linked together that socialism is a synonym for Blaine. Martin H. Paulsen, war veteran candidate for secretary of state, told Milwaukee crowd.

The primary serves too well the boss and the machine of the party in power; its tendency is to make politics a rich man's game; said Karl Mathis, democratic candidate for governor, nomination, in speech at Green Bay.

Will "Carry On." It has been announced that the government will be continued along the exact lines laid down by Collins and Griffith, and these left in charge, William Cosgrave and Richard Mulcahy, have expressed their determination to see the free state for which the two lost leaders worked so indelibly, set on a firm foundation.

Mulcahy succeeds Collins as commander-in-chief of the National army. Cosgrave as head of the government. What actual changes will be made in the ministry is unknown, and the Dublin cabinet session has been postponed to September 1.

Abandon Rebel Cause. Meanwhile, word comes from Cork that Tom Bates, who directed the ambush near Bandon in which Collins was killed and who accepts responsibility for the general's death, has abandoned the rebel cause, of giving his services to the free state. Senate he would "go simply as one of the law-abiding citizens of Wisconsin" and will always be ready to receive candid, frank suggestions from any citizen or any group of my fellow citizens. Continuing, the speaker said, "I have no grudge against any one. I am a messenger of hope, good will, and cooperation, rather than a messenger of discontent. Bill Would Give President Right to Operate Mines

(By Associated Press) Washington.—The president would be authorized, within his discretion, to acquire, by condemnation or otherwise, and operate any or all of the coal mines in the country under an amendment to the Borah coal commission bill proposed Friday by Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey.

The amendment also would have congress declare the existence of an emergency "resulting from the economic conditions in the production and distribution of coal."

President Harding, it was said Friday in an official quarter conversation with the anthracite situation, holds that negotiations, suspended early this week through failure of the operators and union officials to reach an agreement, particularly on the question of arbitration, should be resumed at once.

State Decides on New Route for 20

Complying with the request of the Rock county board that state trunk highway 20, Janesville to Brodhead, when constructed, be laid out as close to the present route as practicable, the state highway commission has decided on the location of five miles of the road from Janesville. The route goes out Pleasant street on the upper Footville road and runs almost due west to within four miles of Footville when it turns southwest toward Orfordville.

The road will not go through Orfordville and will not touch Hanover or Footville. The state commission has decided it will not withhold its consent to the Hanover and Orfordville road on the south side of the St. Paul road, but the county board, should it be so advised, must do so with the clear knowledge that the state commission feels a road on the north must be built to properly accommodate this west to east traffic.

Eliminate Road Crossing. The commission makes no recommendations as to the route from Orfordville west to the Green county line. It says nothing can be done now.

The new route eliminates all but one railroad crossing, the one over the Northwestern railroad near Footville.

The commission still intimates it favors the route through to Footville and then across to Orfordville eliminating Hanover which is a position they have refused to accept as not keeping faith with Hanover. The route now proposed cutting across to Orfordville without going into Footville is offered only as an alternative.

It is estimated this will be the ultimate route of No. 20. All this traffic will be lost to the other route if the county board decides to pave the road through Hanover.

PARLEY IS BROKEN OFF; UNIONS ORDER REDOUBLED FIGHT

KNOW WHERE WE STAND NOW, SAYS LABOR LEADER.

OUTLOOK IS DARK No Prospects of Further Negotiations at Present, Is Word of Mediators.

New York.—Attempts to end the rail-shoemen's strike by separate settlements with individual railroads failed Friday, and conferences were broken off.

In announcing the breaking off of negotiations, David Williams, head of the eastern strike committee said "nothing else could have happened."

"If they'll quit fussing around we'll beat these fellows," he added.

Daniel Willard, head of the Baltimore and Ohio, head of the committee of executives who Wednesday decided to continue negotiations with the mediating brotherhood chiefs to see if separate settlements were possible, and other rail heads are preparing to leave town.

Many Every Effort. One of the brotherhood leaders said after the conference that the mediators had made every possible effort to bring about a settlement but that negotiations had blown up. He indicated there was no likelihood at present that they would be resumed.

From unofficial sources it was learned that the breakup came when labor men rejected a proposal advanced by the roads which was regarded by executives as representing a "big concession."

At labor headquarters where it was said the unions were prepared for a fight to the finish, telegrams were being dispatched all over the country calling upon the workers to redouble their struggle with redoubled vigor.

Know Where We Stand. "We know where we stand now," said one leader.

The break came after the brotherhood leaders, who have maintained that the strike must end because the public demanded it, had spent two hours conferring with executives representing about 50 percent of the country's mileage. These negotiations looking toward individual settlements began Wednesday night after the association of railway executives as a whole had agreed to a "big concession" in the seniority question.

Ganfield Speaks to Edgerton Folk

Edgerton.—The greatest political meeting of the year in Edgerton was participated in Thursday night by about 600 persons, who gave enthusiastic welcome to W. A. Ganfield, candidate for United States senator against Robert M. La Follette.

George Blanchard, president of the Rock county republican conference, introduced Mr. Ganfield, who talked from the bandstand in the 25th speech of his campaign.

"I admit that one senator can be right and 55 senators wrong some times, but I do not believe it possible or probable that one senator is right all the time and the rest wrong all the time," he said.

Ganfield pointed out that La Follette has raised a great deal of money, but he is campaigning in the hope of being at Washington to fight against it.

This is a neighborhood club and is largely of La Follette adherents but an organization is being worked up to work for the election of Morgan and Ganfield. Morgan speaks in that vicinity next week.

GO GET IT
They say if you wait at 42nd Street and Broadway LONG enough anyone you want to see will be sure to pass. But don't try it if you are in any sort of a hurry!

In the traffic lanes of Ambition there is only one signal. It reads "Go." "Everything comes to him who waits"—so runs the old saw. But don't take it to mean waiting in one place! Folks who get where they are going and get there first, cut down the time of waiting by moving ever forward to meet the expected good fortune.

Waiting for buying advantages doesn't suit us. WE GO AFTER them—and GET them. Initiative wins—in business and in life.

HOT WEATHER HINT

ICED COFFEE

Iced coffee is not only a delicious summer drink, but it also furnishes a mild stimulation that is particularly grateful on a wilting hot day. It may be combined with fruit juices and other ingredients in a variety of cooling beverages, generally popular with men.

Coffee that is to be served cold should be made somewhat stronger than usual. To get the best results get a package of Thomas J. Webb Coffee from your dealer. Brew it according to your favorite method and chill before adding sugar and cream. If cracked ice is added make sure the coffee is strong enough to provide for the dilution caused by the ice. Mixing the ingredients in a shaker produces a smoother beverage topped with an appetizing foam.

FOOD PRICES BACK TO LEVEL OF 1912

"Good Old Times" Return, Comparison Here Brings Out.

Only the chronic knicker can object to prices on vegetables and fruits in these days of plenty.

Those who long for the "good old times" and the "good old prices" of 10 years ago need look no more—they are here. Prices on practically all things in the market today are selling at the price of ten years ago or even lower.

Watermelons in 1912 were selling for 25 cents each. Now the best and largest are but 10 cents. Then peaches were 25 for small baskets, 35 for large. Today the largest baskets bring but 25 cents. Pears then were 25 and are now 35; sweet corn exactly the same at 10 cents a dozen ears; sugar is slightly higher, now selling 1912 for 20 cents for a dollar. Potatoes were a dollar a bushel, practically the same price as today's. Eggs were 22 cents a dozen, varying not a cent from the price prevalent here all summer.

Other Prices About Same. In the year 1912 there seemed to be a good crop of cabbage as there is today, for they were selling at the same price—5 cents per head. Cooking apples were then 3 cents a pound—today the best fancy eating apples are 4 cents. Plums were then 10 cents a dozen—now they are 25 cents per basket, containing many more than a dozen. Lemons were 30 cents a dozen, which they have been here all summer until this past week, when they went to 10. Green peppers were 2 for 5 cents—they have 35d here this summer for 25 cents a dozen.

Cantaloupes were selling in 1912 at a great bargain for 10 cents each. Many stores in the city then were offering some for 5 cents each, the best for 10 and 15. Reports sent out from Chicago that the watermelon and cantaloupe season had ended, will not affect the local market. This was on the contrary variety alone and the fields of the county are enough to supply the county demand for these two fruits. No shipped-in melons have been received for some time by local dealers, with the exception of some Osage fruit from Michigan. The present is the height of the season for these two.

varieties of popular melons, dealers say, and the price now is as low as it will probably be this year.

New Arrivals Here. Stocked: peaches, concord grapes, white pickling onions and summer squash are the new arrivals in the markets. The peaches are the small, green, but sweet peaches for pickling. They are home-grown and sell 4 pounds for a quarter. Bartlett pears for eating are selling at 25 cents a dozen.

Concord grapes bring around 30 cents a basket, although it being the first of the season, a great range in price is seen. The pickling onions are 10 cents a pound and the summer squash brings 10 cents for each one.

Small plums for canning sell at 3 boxes for a quarter, an extremely reasonable price. Home-grown apples are down to 6 pounds for a quarter.

For the best fancy eating varieties, all those in the market now are home-grown. Dealers will probably handle little shipped-in apples until the fancy Jonathan and other similar fall varieties arrive. It does not pay to ship them in now, at the price the farmers are selling their orchard products.

Cucumbers for pickling are 20 cents a dozen for the large species, while a range of prices is seen on the small.

The Cross-Cut

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines
By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

SYNOPSIS
At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns there has been a dark period in his father's life which for almost 30 years has caused him suffering. The secret is hinted at in a document left by the elder Fairchild, which also informs Robert of his father's ownership of a mining claim in Colorado, and advising him to see Henry Beamish, a lawyer.
Beamish tells Robert his claim is a silver mine and warns him against a certain man, "Squint Rodaine," his father's enemy. Robert goes to the mining town and finds an old friend of his father's in Mother Rodaine, keeper of a boarding house and a girl from a predicament. He also rescues a girl from a predicament. He turned away from the girl, giving her the name of "Squint Rodaine." Henry and Robert are warned to go home.

Again and again Fairchild's eyes searched the crowds, the multicolored, overcasted costumes of the women, the old-fashioned affairs with which many of them had arrived. From high heels, running shoes, and stiletto pumps, he turned to look at the stumpy, beaver hats. From one face to another his gaze went on; then he turned abruptly to the long line of the narrow-eyed, scowled face of Squint Rodaine, who was officiating at the wheel. He lost interest in the game; lackadaisically he placed the buttons on their squares as the numbers were all shouted. Only to brush them all aside and desert the game. His hatred of the Rodaines had grown to a point where he could enjoy nothing with which they were connected, where he despised everything with which they had the remotest affiliation—excepting, of course, one person. And as he rose, Fairchild saw that she was just entering the dance hall.

From far away the drone of the caller sounded in a voice, familiar to the ears of the crowd. Fairchild, the narrow-eyed, scowled face of Squint Rodaine, who was officiating at the wheel. He lost interest in the game; lackadaisically he placed the buttons on their squares as the numbers were all shouted. Only to brush them all aside and desert the game. His hatred of the Rodaines had grown to a point where he could enjoy nothing with which they were connected, where he despised everything with which they had the remotest affiliation—excepting, of course, one person. And as he rose, Fairchild saw that she was just entering the dance hall.

Only a moment he hesitated. Maurice Rodaine, attired in a mauve frock suit and the inevitable peacock tie, stood looking at the hall, laughing and nodding—and then she looked at him. Fairchild did not wait. From the platform at the end of the big room the fiddles had begun to squeak, and the caller was shouting his announcements. Couples began to line up on the floor. The caller's voice rang in the air. "One more couple—then the dance starts. One more couple, lady and a gent! One more!" Fairchild had reached her side was holding forth his hand. She looked up in half surprise, then demurred.

"But I don't know these old dances." "Neither do I—or any other for that matter," he confessed with sudden boldness. "But does that make any difference? Please!"

She glanced quickly toward the door. Maurice Rodaine was still standing there, looking at the hall, laughing and nodding—and then she looked at him. Fairchild did not wait. BEAUTY CHATS by Edna Kent Forbes

FOR FRIVOLOUS MOMENTS
A few years ago I met a girl who failed to make a favorable impression until she wore a simple evening frock. I emphasize "simple" because rich material and elaborate trimmings would have made her ludicrous. I recall she had pretty blue eyes, expressing candor and childlike wonder. Her hair was wavy and somewhat dark in color. Probably she was still in her twenties, but her short plump figure was already settling at the waistline.

She was visiting an aunt when we met, a woman who was never so happy as when planning a dinner party. At her informal evenings at home, the social guest might easily assume that such an interesting group of people must have been carefully chosen—yet they just all happened to call. It was always a lively party, just the kind in which a timid creature like Fredeline should have expanded; but the summer was more than half gone and the girl was still unnoticed. "She was such a poor, sweet child!" Mrs. B. would sometimes explain when the remark had no place in any running conversation.

One day several of Mrs. B.'s many friends ran into her home for a gossip. They had always been welcome and still had no doubt of it, even when they found, their hostess confessed and awkward but true, that she was trying to hide the fact that a dinner party was about due. The young men were arriving early and Fredeline was coming late. The girls were tactful enough to make plausible excuses for a hasty departure.

In Saturday's chat we will follow out Fredeline's experiences.

"Tiny" Hollows and dark circles under the eyes are the result of poor health. Build yourself up with good food, fresh air and exercise.

of recognition. Only a second more he waited, then, with a wave of the hand, he said: "I am a decent fellow. Don't want much, but I want it quick. This here's for the relief of widows and orphans. Make it sudden. Each one of you gets a step out to the center of the room and leave five dollars. And stop back when you've put it there. Ladies stay where you're at!"

Agata laughed. Fairchild turned to his companion, as she nudged him. "There, it's your turn."

Out to the center of the floor went Fairchild, the rest of the victims laughing and chiding him. Back he came in mock fear, his hands in the air. On down the line went the contributions. Then, the band, music and gold pieces, showed them in his pockets, and whirled toward the door.

"The purpose of this here will be in the paper tomorrow," he announced. "I don't you follow me to find out! Back, there!"

An old negroess went to the governor of Tennessee and said, "Massa govna, wess mighty po' this winter and Ah wish you would pardon mah ole man."

By ELSIE ROBINSON
What is Jazz and how are you going to cure it? Or should it be cured. Is Jazz a sign of human degeneracy? Are we going back to the days of our savage grandpas, discarding all the noblest findings of humanity? Is it a deliberate perversion to savagery, and will civilization be saved by shutting up the dance halls and forbidding the toddle?

Are we reverting to savagery? Yes, we are. But we're not reverting because we long for vice. We're reverting because a hunger is upon us. Jazz is the outward sign of that hunger. Jazz may, in itself, be a childish or vulgar manifestation and its devotees may be quite ignorant of its real significance. But the hunger that inspires Jazz is not childish or vulgar. It is vast and dynamic and the neglect of it may wreck our whole social organization. I do believe that Jazz is the most significant manifestation upon the human horizon today.

The old order has failed us. Somewhere human progress has taken a wrong turning, a turning which has led to drabness and inhibition, to ignorance, sin and suffering. Civilization isn't a success. You may think it is a success because you have a bank account, a good education and sufficient health. But for Jim who lost his legs in the war, it isn't a success. For Jimmy who is trying to live on a stenographer's $70 per month, it isn't a success. For Jack who has never been able to buy a home for his family, it isn't a success. For the Russian and the Armenian and the Chinese and nine-tenths of the Americans, it isn't a success.

Jazz is a protest of the masses against the failure of civilization. Jazz is the snarl of the rebellious savage against the faith which has cheated him.

Jazz is a hunger cry for color and joy and power and peace—for the fullness of life. It's the same old human cry that sent us onward on the trail we call civilization.

Long while we thought we were getting somewhere and the cry was muffled. But now we find we have been cheated.

The breaking down of marriage is one with Jazz. The rolled stock is one with Jazz. The wave of murder, robbery and degeneracy is one with Jazz. Industrial warfare is one with Jazz. It's all the same cry for freer, fuller life—the same cry, swelling to the snarl of insanity when it is baffled.

Don't try to stop that cry without analyzing it. Don't think that you can still the hunger in men's souls by "putting on the lid." Peace will not come again until we have found new grounds for the sons of men. The war isn't over—it has only begun. Jazz isn't the mere tapping of silly, sensual heels. It's the beating of the war drums and we had better listen and beware!

Fish Cutlets—Make a white sauce from two cups of milk, half a cup of flour and a third of a cup of butter. Add two cups of flaked cooked fish, salt and pepper and a tablespoon each of lemon juice and onion juice and mix well. Cook thoroughly, and then form into small cutlets. Cover with bread crumbs and brown in hot fat.

Cuticura Soap is ideal For the Hands

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonsful of Mulsified in a cup of water with a little warm water is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh-looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. —Advertisement

Guaranteed to End Falling Hair and Baldness

Science discovers baldness due to Simple Infection (Sebum). Now quickly overcomes it. Hair actually grows on 91 heads in 100!

Written Guarantee to Grow Hair!

This is a direct offer to grow hair on your head. An offer backed by written guarantee, signed by your own druggist. If you fail, you pay nothing.

Science has recently made amazing discoveries. It has learned that hair roots seldom die. They can be revived. We have proved this by growing new hair on 91 heads in 100.

Highest authorities approve this new way. Great dermatologists now employ it. And an ailment we thought was merely a symptom of infection—or of an infected scalp oil called Sebum.

Infected Sebum
Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its purpose is to supply the hair with oil. But it often becomes infected. It cures on the scalp close the follicles and plugs them. Sebum is not a disease. It is merely a symptom of infection—or of an infected scalp oil called Sebum.

We Remove It
Our treatment is based on two principles. It penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It kills infection—removes the infectious Sebum. Falling hair stops in three weeks. It grows back. Permanent hair roots, makes new hair grow. Remember, it is guaranteed.

No red tape. The guarantee is positive. You are the judge. Your own druggist signs it. Go today, ask him for Van Ess Scalp Massage. The guarantee will accompany it. If the treatment fails—your money back.

Woman Blamed by Her Family

Restless, irritable, nervous, excitable and exacting is the charge against her by those nearest and dearest. How little they realize the struggle the overworked wife and mother is making to keep about and perform the hundred and one duties that devolve upon her! Every hour her headache, backaches and pains drag her down until she can stand it no longer. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restores and builds her up in this condition to health and happiness than any other medicine.

The grateful letters we are continually publishing in this paper from women who have found health by its use prove it.

Southern Wisconsin Baseball League Planned for 1923

Copyright 1920 by Geo. McManus

WANT JANESVILLE TO CONSIDER PLAN FOR PROPOSED LOOP

League baseball for Southern Wisconsin cities is the program planned for next year.

Although the 1922 season is still with us, a number of towns are looking forward to 1923 with hopes of putting across an organization to work more smoothly than any other ever attempted in this territory.

"Let us get started in the fall and the winter months so that we can start off with a definite organization next spring," is the consensus of opinion. In the past, according to followers of league attempts in this section, all arrangements have been rushed through at the last minute. In most cases this has resulted in a loose circuit.

Whose interested, Edgerton, Stoughton and Janesville are vitally interested in the suggestion. It has been talked up in those cities until the demand is keen. Public sentiment among the fans standpoint is assured already.

Janesville is wanted in the circuit. The class of ball that would be played would be of teams composed of home players except the battery, which could be hired from out of town.

This would make possible the organization of the Janesville Black Cats. The management of the lower city organization is intensely interested in the scheme. Other cities interested are Whitewater, Port Jefferson, Cambridge, Jefferson and Milton.

A number of Janesville men have expressed a desire in the past few months for baseball of this nature.

The first meeting on the proposition probably will be held some time during September.

Ladies Are Free at Moose-Pussy Champion Series

Ladies free.

Announcement to this effect was issued Friday by the Janesville Moose-Pussy team, who are to play the city baseball championship at the Moose-Pussy pasture on North Washington street Sunday. The game is to start at 2:30 p. m.

The series will be one of three games, best two.

Contracts have been drawn up covering the entire series. The teams must use the same players throughout the season, making trading up impossible.

Spencer Horse Repeats Races at Madison Tight

Madison.—Franc Sterling, owned by the late George A. Spencer of Janesville, repeated his wins at Janesville and Monroe by taking the 2:30 trot here Thursday in six heats. The time of the event was perhaps about the best, comparatively of the week's card.

Jim Woodman, which went so big last year on the Wisconsin circuit, won his first race of the present season here. He took the 2:15 pace. The time, however, was slower than the class.

On Friday, Sir Roche, the world's record breaker at 1:59 1/2, will try to break the local track record, but will have a slow track to work on.

Thursday's results:

2:15 Pace, $1,000 stake.

Jim Woodman, 2:15, 2:16, 2:17, 2:18, 2:19, 2:20, 2:21, 2:22, 2:23, 2:24, 2:25, 2:26, 2:27, 2:28, 2:29, 2:30, 2:31, 2:32, 2:33, 2:34, 2:35, 2:36, 2:37, 2:38, 2:39, 2:40, 2:41, 2:42, 2:43, 2:44, 2:45, SEVERAL HUNDRED HEAR WOMEN TALK

Mesdames Blaine and La Follette Here—Zona Gale Speaks.

An audience of 300 or 400 persons assembled in court house park Thursday night to hear Mrs. Robert M. La Follette and Mrs. John J. Blaine tell why their respective husbands should be re-elected. They also urged support for the anti-progressive ticket, Mrs. La Follette giving an enthusiastic boost to A. E. Garey, Rock county candidate for the state senate, stating that he may be depended upon to support the policies advocated by Senator La Follette.

Miss Zona Gale, Wisconsin's famous novelist and short story writer, was an unannounced speaker, whom the audience greeted enthusiastically when she was introduced by Mrs. Blaine at the conclusion of the latter's address. Mrs. Gale spoke only two or three minutes, declaring that she favors the reelection of the senior senator because she believes "he has the highest vision of human welfare or any man who has ever served Wisconsin in national councils."

Mrs. Blaine, gives sidelights in her address. Mrs. Blaine declared the record of her governor husband and threw some intimate sidelights on his way of dealing with important matters. She asserted further that the funds secured through adequate taxation of corporations would be sufficient to enable Wisconsin to take care of her own soldiers' handsomely, could the national bonus bill fail of passage, and that Wisconsin now leads all the other states in the care given to disabled soldiers. She defended the governor's pardon policy warmly saying in part: "Nothing is so distressing as this question of pardons. Mr. Blaine brings the records of these cases home with him and sits up far into the night going over them. His only desire is to help young men get a fresh start. Excessive punishment never has succeeded in preventive crime. Mr. Blaine considers a prisoner's family responsibilities especially, and the man who has a family to support seldom fails to reform if pardoned. The governor is actuated by humane motives only."

Mrs. La Follette Good Campaigner. Mrs. La Follette has the aggressive personality and good voice needed for successful campaigning and these combined with womanliness that appeals make her an able champion of her husband's cause. She began her address with a discussion of the primary law and its benefits, and gave Mr. La Follette the credit for the existence of this law in Wisconsin.

Continuing, Mrs. La Follette said in part: "In all the years that Mr. La Follette has been fighting for human welfare, I have never known such a situation as exists in this campaign. We used to have a clean-cut line between those who were progressives and those who were not, but in this campaign people are calling themselves progressives and are working under cover to deceive the voters. So I want to urge you to study the candidates carefully, and be sure that you do not vote for sham progressives. I ask you to consider what I shall tell you about the candidates whom I know are true progressives."

Defends War Record. The speaker then proceeded to discuss the qualifications of the various candidates whose election she declared, Mr. La Follette declared essential to the welfare of the people of Wisconsin. Her address, Mrs. La Follette took occasion to defend her husband's war record, as well as his record on various issues that have been before the senate during his incumbency. She also devoted considerable time to a discussion of things that took place years ago when the senior senator was governor of Wisconsin.

At Emerald Grove, having a population of 100, the crowd was composed of 75.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor: Flappers, flappers everywhere! I am going to quote to you readers an article I read. It reads:

"The flapper is more sensible than her critics and more consistent. The young girl of today is raised in the spirit of a free woman and a healthful and beneficial freedom. She is not constrained by corsets, high heels, long skirts or conventions of any kind."

If she wants to "set her hair loosed" who has as much right to do it as a man has to have his hair cut short. It is a matter merely of convenience, comfort and healthfulness. There is no question of morality involved in it and the man who tries to make it a matter of morality is merely a stupid bigot.

"The same class and the same kind of men who inveighed against long hair 20 years ago is inveighing against short hair today."

"The flapper belongs in a free country and in an age of proper liberty for women as well as men. She is not abusing her liberty. She is not doing anything improper."

"And if any man finds any immorality in her sensible costume and behavior, the immorality is in the mind of the man and he is the one that should be criticized."

As for myself, I am not a flapper, but I agree with the writer of this article. Signed NOT A FLAPPER.

Big Oil Field in Illinois, Forecast

Jackson, Ill.—Opening of a "big oil field" in Morgan county, near here, was declared certain when Rhodes & Woodward of Tulsa, Okla., announced that a 20 barrel well, 400 feet deep, had "come in."

The oil was struck in Pennsylvania sand, which had a gravity of 26, it was announced. The geological formation of the land which has produced the 20 barrels a day well is perfect for oil, the producers said. They announced that another well 1,200 feet deep will be drilled immediately.

They have leased the oil rights in land in the vicinity of the wells and intend to extend their holdings.

The classes were large and the Rock county Durocs swine placed in every class and only lost one championship ribbon.

Win With Swine. The Durocs entered by Alva Maxfield, Clarence Croft, L. A. Tachin, Edward H. Parker, Walter Little, H. H. Arnold and George Morris, all won ribbons and shared in the prizes. Fashion-Plate, the line bred Col. oneal boar of Croft placed first in the age boar class and then stepped out to win the grand championship as well as the senior championship ribbons. Rock county took three seconds and two firsts in the boar classes, four firsts, one second, four thirds for sows. The junior champion boar was "Superior Sensation Result" owned by Marley. The junior champion sow, Miss Sensation, is owned by George Morris, Evansville. The swine were judged by H. A. Fargo, university swine expert. The county placed either first or second in the herd contests.

In the Berkshire classes, Rock county with the herd of George P. Clark, Avalon, won two firsts, now championship, three seconds and one fourth. A boar from the Whitmore herd, Lyons, won the boar honors.

Holsteins Stand Test. In the Holstein contests, Rock county bumped into red competition. Placed against the best in Dane county, the Highland Center entries and others, the county show herd came out of the ring with flying colors.

In the championship bull contests, there was a contest that held the interest of 1,000 farmers who swarmed around the ring as Ray Hulse made the decisions. Rock county had two entries, Sir Echo Sylvia Leeds, owned by A. G. Russell, the giant herd sire of John Goldthorpe and Sir Johanna Pauline Ormsby, the Keyes and Manning entry. Two Dane county bulls were also in the ring. It was half an hour before Hulse placed the animals in judging position.

"Here is a contest seldom seen at a county fair," declared the Judge. "These three bulls stand out as truly great animals. Each has its good points with few faults." First place went to the Highland Center bull, second to Goldthorpe and third to the Russell bull.

Beauty Johanna Kornelyke Vale, owned by the Funk brothers, in the county show herd, took second honors in the class for males, two and under three years. Walcotts Abernethy, owned by Howard Miller, took third.

McCaun Is Winner. Beef Shorthorn breeders ran into competition, but collected most of the blue ribbons. The herds of Griswold and Son, Livingston and Marco and son, Burlington were pitted against the Rock county entries of J. J. McCaun, Janesville; J. W. Lathers, Reelfoot; Dexter Grey and son, Milton Junction. J. J. McCaun collected winning champion honors on Master's Signet, winner at Janesville and Mosroe, defeating the creek entries from other counties. Griswold won championship cow honors over Jessica of Geneva, the Rock county entry.

Dexter Grey won the senior bull calf ribbon and Judge Fuller pointed out the animal as a "really great calf and one to be watched in the future."

McCaun won on age herd and the Rock county entries placed well in all the contests. The milkfat Shorthorn herd stood out as a prize collection of blooded animals. A Rock county bred bull, Janesville Model, owned by Jack Keenan, Oregon, Dane county, took bull honors while Robert Traynor, winner of the cow honors. University livestock experts, after seeing the Rock county show herd, were amazed at seeing such a variety of quality stock. They endorsed the county show herd plan as "being the most progressive breeding idea undertaken by any county."

"This Rock county is a hard one to crack when it comes to finding 'better livestock,'" declared J. G. Fuller. "I know you had the stuff and am glad that you are getting out to show it at the fairs. I wish more counties would do the same thing. When the visitors look over all your stock and the varieties they cannot help but appreciate Rock county."
